Loves it.

Has great types of ships

I enjoy adult coloring books. Coloring is a hobby I am developing because I no longer have the room to pursue my other passion -- 1/87 model railroading and other models -- cars in 1/24 and 1/18 scale, planes in 1/48 and 1/32 scale and ships in 1/700 scale. When I saw Dover Publishers and "Big Mo" on the cover, I knew this would be a winner. The pictures are detailed -- if you get this book, look at the Fletcher class destroyer. You can see sailors manning the AA guns and an officer on the bridge looking up through his binoculars. You will need a knowledge of the ships and the era, because the author gives no indication of the associated hues. But you can't go wrong with basic gray. I use Crayola and Rose Art pencils, and I have recently added some Prangs, Loews and Faber Castels to my pencil inventory. I have tried Prismacolor, but they tend to be too soft for me. I think this is a great product for adults who enjoy coloring military subjects.

very nice

My husband was in the Navy for 22 years. I bought this as a present. He has really enjoyed it.

Not a lot to color. Paper quality not great. Dover could do a lot better at creating quality coloring books with better pictures to color, was not worth the money paid..

Gave this and two others to my brother-in-law for Christmas. He loved them.

This little book along with Aircraft of WWII, Jet Aircraft, make up a great reference library when I am doing an oil painting. You can spend a lot more money, but why? These are great books, accurate, at a great price. I purchased Aircraft of WWII, Warships of WWII and Jet Aircraft. When I'm done with them they make great gifts for the grandkids.
