Biography of Author Robert Bowman, Jr. Rob Bowman earned an M.A. in Biblical Studies and Theology from Fuller Theological Seminary in 1981 and pursued his doctoral studies in Apologetics at Westminster Theological Seminary. He is the author of over 50 articles (e.g., in the Christian Research Journal, Moody Monthly, Pastoral Renewal, Mission Frontiers, and Journal of Evangelism and Missions) and 13 books pertaining to apologetics, religion, and biblical theology, including two winners of the Gold Medallion Award, An Unchanging Faith in a Changing World (1997) and Faith Has Its Reasons (2001; 2d ed., 2006).

Clear and concise, with facts. Love it and have referred others to this guide. It covers the 12 major liturgical, such as Adventist/Church of Christ and non-liturgical (Catholic/Presbyterian) churches. Some of the things covered: When founded, by whom How scripture is viewed Who is God/Jesus Beliefs and practices Includes: Helpful words to know It is a great guide.

You can spend a lot of time searching around on the internet for the answers this pamphlet lays out for you. It lists twelve major denominations and what they believe in an easy to understand format. Who each denomination thinks God and Jesus are, how we are saved, what happens after death, and other questions are answered. If you're stuck on the definition of a religious term, there's a handy chart on the back that explains what they mean. There's also a great visual family tree that shows how the denominations branched out. This is a great visual reference to understanding the different denominations today and what they believe.

This laminated folding Christian Denominations pamphlet is colorful and easy to use. It compares 12 common Christian denominations on several aspects such as when and why they were formed, and compares their core beliefs. It also has very brief descriptions of a few other smaller denominations, as well as a glossary of Christian terms. It doesn't go far in-depth into any of the denominations, but it's a good introductory comparison that you'll come back to time and again. I only wish that more denominations were compared, and that it was printed on thicker paper. Next time you wonder "Do all Christian denominations believe this way?" open it to find out!

Would have liked to see a more complete comparison to include the evangelical churches vice what this considers as mainline. Altho cover alludes to Baptist, e.g., there is no category for that or for many of the other denominations that have significant membership. Assy of God, Church of God, others.

Only lists 10 denominations, so it is good but limited. The wording is concise and very helpful for understanding the key doctrines of the denominations listed, but I just wish there were (a lot!) more denominations listed with the same wording and format style that the plastic foldout already has.

Received. I rated this pamphlet already

It's very obviously biased and there are misconceptions about several religions listed as fact. I was disappointed because I was hoping to learn more about other religions but I can't trust it knowing whoever wrote it didn't bother actually talking to people of other religions before publishing it.
