I absolutely love this series of lessons. I use them to teach midweek Bible study for kids. They work better with kids ages 5-10. The lessons are interactive and taught on a kids level. The lessons do not take a lot of prep time; they are easy to understand; a fun to teach. I love using my prime membership to get my purchase in 2 days as well.

I love this curriculum! It takes little preparation, keeps the kids engaged, and is just plain fun! The kids love putting into action what they learn. I copied the front page of the book and had the kids put together the work page each week to create a journal to take home at the end of our journey? We made handpainted backpacks, water bottle holders and hats for our travels. I plan to purchase another Travel Guide.

One of my favorite, easy-to-follow children's Bible guides. Because we've moved to a new area & are "church hopping," I bought this to continue my children's bible studies while we look for the right church fit, but I've used these for weeknight K-3 children's groups & they've been a good place to start.

this is a great resource for kids not churchd. The lesson plans are well set up and are often more than I can use in one hour- so then review and add new things. keep all ages interested. I add some of the kid's Sunday school songs with motions for more involvement.

I use it for kids ages 7-11. It is very adaptable and easy to teach. The kids really enjoy the lessons and activities, and I feel that it effectively communicates biblical truth to children. I have used others in the series, and they are excellent resources, too.

I have ages 4-11 for Sunday School, all mixed together in my class. This book is great for the lesson, craft and hands-on activities. There are 13 lessons but you can stretch it out because there's so much information. I highly recommend!!!!

Love the Travel Guide series. Have not actually got into this book with the Sunday School but am excited to get started. Have already studied the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments and the children have loved.

will use in children's ministry soon
