Customer Reviews

This is a very nice and seemingly rugged map. I like hiking somewhat easy trails, especially to waterfalls for photography, and this will prove invaluable. I believe its water resistant, and folds up easily. A good map is as important as a favorite backpack....

High quality map - no one should hike without a map of this caliber.

I have the five map set for the Adirondacks and find them to be high quality and accurate. This is the newest addition to their series and covers all of the Catskill Park. Although I haven't used it in the field yet I have looked at it extensively and find it to be of the same high quality as the Adirondack series and easy to use.

I love NatGeos maps. This one is no exception. I've used it on multiple backpacking trips and it has always been accurate and durable.

one of the best maps available for the catskills. It even lists PFR (public fishing rights) areas outside the park

It is the product that was described. I just happen to prefer a little more detail. It is a good supplement to a guide book.

I love this map series. They are my go-to maps for backpacking. They show campsites and shelters, which you usually have to scour the internet for. It shows trails and the distances--as well as the quality of the trail to some degree; for example, a black trail is well-maintained. A grey trail is THERE, technically, but isn't maintained by the park and might be obscure. I do wish the maps marked clear water sources (with, of course, the caveat that packers should always call the park to check on said source). Parking is clearly marked and if the portion of the part costs money to enter. It shows rock climbing areas. It shows fishing areas. These are also waterproof. I'm glad I keep it with me when I hike; I've run into a few hikers here and there who are turned around and I can show them where they are and where to go. The map is so clear that, literally, in about 30 seconds, the hiker knows what direction to go and some marks to look for (like a lean-to or lake). I also use this map to start researching a trip. I just put out the map and look at the distances and presence of water or whatever. If you see an area, for example, with A LOT of parking, that area is probably more congested than you want. I'd recommend this map to anyone of any hiking level.

Sturdy waterproof and tear resistant! nice details!
